Virtual Ink

A preview of the work so far

LOCAL DEVELOPMENT PREVIEW - NOT YET ACCEPTING ORDERS

The existing homepage, using the supplied Virtual Ink identity. Captured from the local application.

The idea

A web platform connecting people and businesses with printing, design, branded merchandise and delivery vendors.

Working in this preview

Product browsing and search; a product-specific 3D design studio; editable text layers; Undo/Redo; and a flat layout fallback. These interactions were checked locally for this walkthrough.

Still to finish

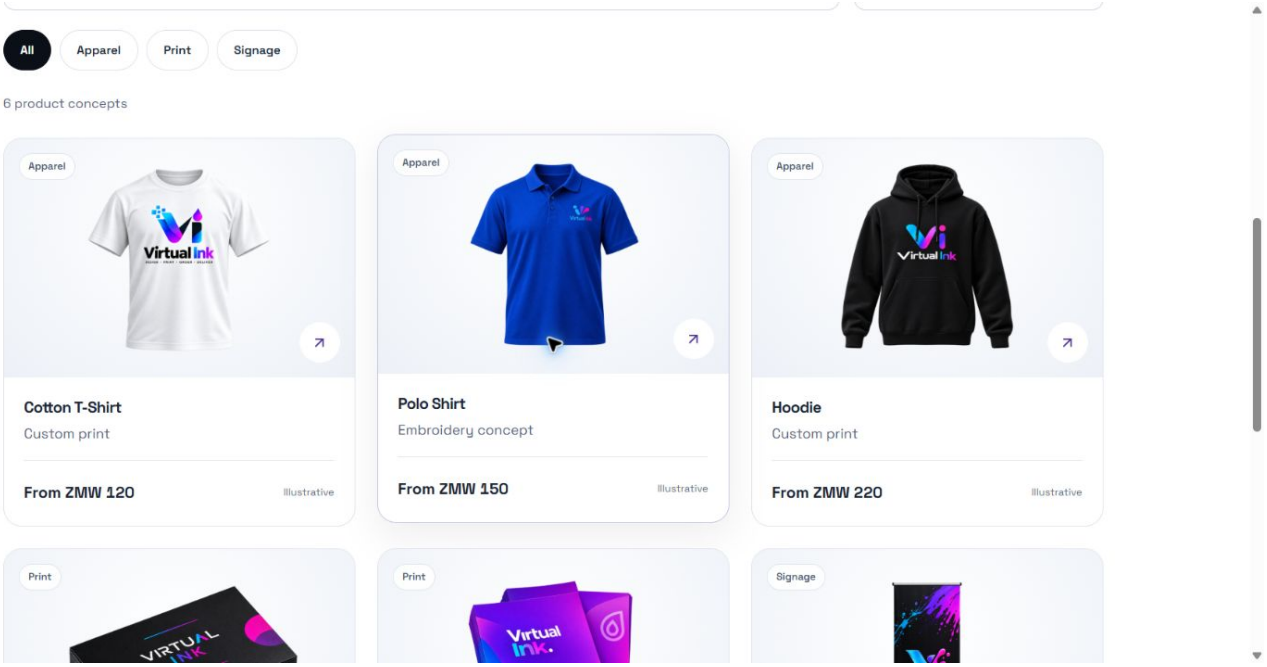

Genuine hosted sign-in and email, sandbox checkout, private-file transport, the complete proof/order/production journey, and physical-device acceptance. The complete platform is not launch-ready.

Next support needed

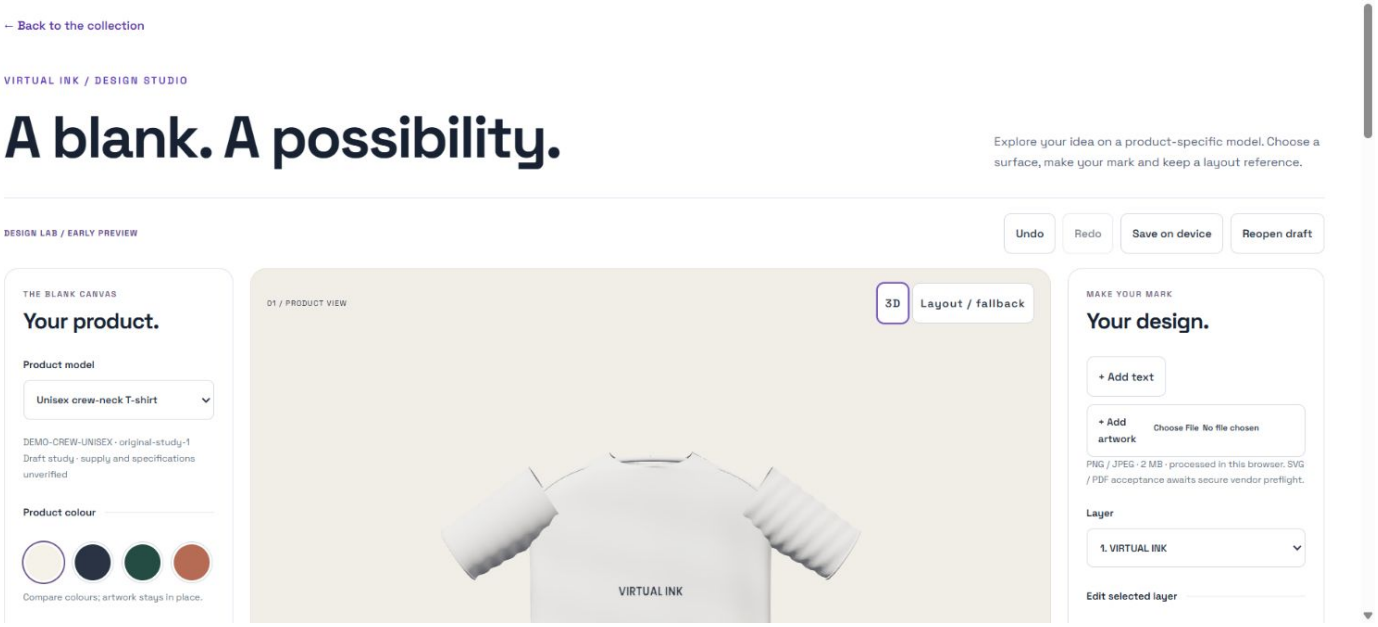

Support with an owned domain and the remaining services needed to complete staging tests would help move the project forward. No purchase budget or paid-plan commitment has been finalized.

From catalogue to custom design

Actual local screens - concept products and draft models

Catalogue: six illustrative product concepts are available to browse. The pictured prices are demonstration values, not approved commercial prices.

Design studio: the synthetic VIRTUAL INK text layer was edited and restored through Undo/Redo. The design remained visible in 3D and flat layout. Model dimensions and supplier suitability still require verification.

This PDF can be shared without buying a domain. It demonstrates current interface progress, not a complete payment, email or fulfilment service.